

We decided to talk about our visit to China Town, in London, because we had a good time there and were flabbergasted about the beauty of the area. Unfortunately, we only had a few hours to discover the place, but it was enough to discover some typical things. For example, we went inside an Asian shop with only Asian products which was impressive and cool; the boys even bought some sodas. Moreover, we also enjoyed the decoration and the atmosphere; in fact, the area is almost only red and gold, as you may see in the picture, and the people were really nice !

Yet, you should be aware that there are some tourist traps; indeed, 3 of us wanted to have a photo with someone disguised as Pikachu so we paid 1£ but after we paid, he said he would only accept two of us on the photo...
